

Winston & Strawn Contributes to Chambers Banking & Finance 2019 Second Edition Guide

OCTOBER 16, 2019

Winston & Strawn London-based attorneys Zoë Ashcroft, Ian Borman, and Daniela Cohen have contributed to Chambers & Partners' Banking & Finance 2019 Second Edition Guide, which provides expert legal commentary on key issues for businesses and covers important developments in the most significant jurisdictions.

Winston's London office provides a wide range of legal services through its banking and finance practice, to public and private companies, leading financial institutions, multilateral and development finance institutions, private equity and investment funds, alternative funding sources, investors and emerging companies, on investment grade, leveraged and mezzanine financings. The firm advises on high-profile transactions and matters ranging from cross-border transactions, initial public offerings (IPOs) and project finance matters, to distressed acquisitions and creative "first-of-their-kind" financings.
