Silicon Valley
+1 650-858-1538

Yarden is an experienced litigator focusing her practice on complex patent and intellectual property cases. She has experience representing clients across diverse industries—including global technology, financial services, medical devices, gaming, and telecommunications—leading their cases from early case strategy through trial. She has extensive courtroom experience, having argued in state and federal courts and leading pro bono teams to trial.

Yarden's IP litigation experience spans a variety of technologies, including beamforming, mobile banking, image recognition, and remote desktop protocols. She also has experience advising leading global technology companies in cross-border intellectual property matters and working on a wide range of complex commercial disputes.

Yarden is also an active member of the legal community and is notable for her dedication to pro bono work and women's empowerment. While in law school, she founded a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization focused on empowering women law students pursuing careers in technology law. She is similarly committed to pro bono service, and her work spans immigration, Hague Convention matters, animal rights, and criminal justice advocacy. Yarden is also actively engaged in Winston & Strawn's Women's Leadership Initiative (WLI).

Yarden previously served as a judicial extern to the Honorable Edward J. Davila of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California.
