

Winston & Strawn's 2020 Guide to International Arbitration

JUNE 18, 2020

The COVID-19 pandemic has severely impacted the global economy and markets, causing businesses to face significant disruption to business operations, supply chains, and contractual obligations. Companies around the world are entering an unprecedented era of uncertainty, and a rise of disputes related to the coronavirus outbreak is anticipated. Now, more than ever, it is vital that companies conducting cross-border transactions, investing abroad, or entering into contracts with foreign governments, understand the dispute resolution mechanisms available to them, should an issue arise.

Winston & Strawn's 2020 Pocket Guide to International Arbitration, summarizing key principles of international commercial arbitration. The Guide is designed to assist clients who engage in cross-border transactions or international disputes by addressing topics such as: (i) when to utilize an arbitration clause over a foreign litigation clause in cross-border transactions; (ii) how to draft an effective arbitration clause; (iii) interim measures in aid of the arbitration; (iv) the role of arbitral institutions; (v) challenges and enforcement of awards; and (vi) the benefits of using investor-State arbitration to protect foreign investments from unfair governmental measures.
