

Winston & Strawn Launches Energy & Infrastructure Group

FEBRUARY 10, 2021

Winston & Strawn formed a combined energy and infrastructure industry group led by partners in Houston and New York as those sectors evolve to favor clean and renewable energy sources.

Partners Mike Blankenship and Mike Pikiel will spearhead the new practice group. The team came from the firm's project finance and energy regulatory practice groups, which will now be led by partner Alan Hoffman.

"We thought it was important that we be able to bring together the group of the traditional fossil fuels, oil and gas, as well as the infrastructure power side, into one group," Blankenship said.
