

Cari Stinebower Addresses Possible U.S. Sanctions Against Russia in Reuters Interview

FEBRUARY 4, 2022

Winston & Strawn Partner Cari N. Stinebower sat down with Reuters to discuss potentially unprecedented sanctions if Russia were to invade Ukraine and how companies with interests in Russia can prepare.

“In some cases, it’s not possible for clients to completely extricate themselves, nor do they want to. It’s really just accounting for the risk of exposure and then trying to figure out if there are U.S. sanctions and E.U. sanctions [and] what that means from a long-term business continuity perspective. What needs to come down, what can be adjusted to remain compliant, and what would become prohibited instantly?”

Watch the full interview here.

Less Than 1 Min Read

Related Locations

Washington, DC

Related Topics

Reuters

Russia

Ukraine

International Trade

Economic Sanctions

Related Capabilities

International Trade

Related Regions

Related Professionals

Cari Stinebower