

Considerations for Creating Shareholder Value in a Volatile Market

DECEMBER 14, 2022

The current trends of rising interest rates and inflationary cost increases, among other things, have imposed downward pressures on publicly traded equity prices, especially for businesses that became publicly traded via a de-SPAC merger.

Join Winston & Strawn, CohnReznick, and SPACInsider on December 14, 2022, at 4:00 PM CST for an informative discussion on the challenges that public companies (or those considering a public company transaction) must address to be successful in the current market.

There is limited space available to attend the presentation in person at our Houston office, followed by a happy hour. Attendees can also participate virtually.

CLE credit will be offered.
