Matthew is an experienced trial lawyer who represents and counsels clients in international arbitration matters worldwide. His practice focuses on the resolution of complex, high-value disputes arising out of major infrastructure projects, joint ventures, shareholder agreements, M&A transactions, and other cross-border commercial activity across a wide variety of sectors, including energy, mining, construction, civil engineering, transportation, and technology and telecommunications. Fluent in three languages, his experience spans a wide array of geographies including Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia.

Matthew is a U.S.-trained trial lawyer with decades of experience advising and representing clients in international arbitration matters around the world. Matthew has acted as lead counsel in a wide array of international commercial arbitrations and investor-State arbitrations under the major institutional rules (AAA/ICDR, ICC, ICSID, LCIA, SCC, UNCITRAL, etc.), arising under a variety of substantive laws. He has handled cases in the leading arbitral seats including London, Paris, Geneva, Zurich, Stockholm, Singapore, Hong Kong, Dubai, Washington D.C., and New York. He has also sat as arbitrator.

Matthew has been recognized as a leading practitioner in the field of international arbitration in numerous publications, including The Legal 500 International Arbitration Powerlist. An impressed source says that he is “hugely capable and a delight to work with”. Clients also note his abilities as a “strategic thinker who understands how to navigate efficiently through multi-layered disputes with cross-jurisdictional implications”.

Matthew is a member of the firm’s Technology, New Media and Telecommunications Industry Group.
