Chuck is the litigation office head in Washington, D.C., serves on the firm's Executive Committee, is the former co-chair of the firm's Intellectual Property Practice, and is the former chair of the firm's Commercial Litigation Practice. He is a first-chair trial lawyer who litigates significant patent, antitrust, and commercial disputes. Managing Intellectual Property recently recognized him as an "IP Star," and IAM described him as a "talisman for major pharmaceutical and biotechnology businesses" who is "no stranger to billion-dollar cases." Six of Chuck's first-chair victories (including three trial wins) have been mentioned in the "Litigator of the Week" column published by The American Lawyer.

Chuck has extensive experience representing clients in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries. This includes litigating billion-dollar patent and antitrust issues, as well as representing biosimilar and generic drug manufacturers as lead counsel in high-stakes patent proceedings related to the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act (BPCIA) and the Hatch-Waxman Act.

Chuck also is an accomplished appellate lawyer with a long history of achieving successful appellate outcomes, including multiple reversals. He has argued many appeals before various federal and state appellate courts, including the Federal Circuit, D.C. Circuit, Third Circuit, and Seventh Circuit, among others. He also has prepared successful merits and amicus briefs filed in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Chuck's commercial litigation experience also is extensive, and he has participated in several internal investigations, including the high-profile internal investigation and related litigation concerning the compensation of former NYSE Chairman and CEO Richard A. Grasso. In connection with that matter, he deposed some of the most sophisticated witnesses in American politics and business, including Leon Panetta and the CEOs of major Wall Street firms.

Key Matters

Serving as lead trial and appellate counsel, Chuck obtained a trial judgment, affirmed on appeal, of noninfringement related to a stress-test agent. Serving as lead trial and appellate counsel, he obtained a trial judgment, affirmed on appeal, invalidating six patents related to a drug used to treat very high triglyceride levels. Serving as lead trial and appellate counsel, he obtained a trial judgment, affirmed on appeal, invalidating four patents related to a multiple sclerosis drug. Also serving as lead trial and appellate counsel, he convinced the Federal and D.C. Circuits to deny requests for injunctive relief related to a drug that treats gout. Serving as lead trial counsel, he obtained a trial judgment of non-infringement and invalidity regarding an insomnia drug. He obtained the first injunction under the Hatch-Waxman counterclaim provision—a significant ruling for the generic-drug industry that the Supreme Court ultimately upheld in a 9-0 decision. He also obtained a defense jury verdict in a US$1.7B pharmaceutical antitrust case identified by The Daily Journal as one of the “Top Verdicts of 2011.”

Recognitions

Chuck was recognized in the 2023 and 2024 editions of Benchmark Litigation US as a “Litigation Star” and recommended by IAM Patent 1000. In 2022 and 2023, he was recognized in The Legal 500 US, as a Managing Intellectual Property “Patent Star,” and as one of Lawdragon 500's Leading Litigators in America for IP, especially patent; antitrust; and commercial litigation. Chuck was recognized by LMG Life Sciences in its 2021 and 2022 editions for patent litigation. He was nominated as an IAM Global Leader in the 2021 edition. Chuck has been recognized in Am Law's “Litigator of the Week” column six times in connection with his significant trial and appellate wins, including for Hikma Pharmaceuticals and Pfizer subsidiary Hospira, Inc.
