

Steve D'Amore Discusses Trends in Post-Acquisition Litigation at 2017 General Counsel Symposium

NOVEMBER 3, 2017

Steve D'Amore, co-chair of Winston & Strawn's Litigation Department, presented "Post-Acquisition Litigation: What Are We Seeing Now" at Duff & Phelps 2017 General Counsel Symposium on November 3 in Chicago. This event brought together corporate counsel from some of the largest companies across the U.S. for a conversation on pressing issues, including:

- What keeps GCs up at night?
- Compliance officer update (regulatory exams, dealings with regulators, Dodd Frank, AML, and FCPA)
- Canadian and other U.S. cross-border litigation: current issues and trends
- Recent developments in fraud investigations and litigation including ponzi schemes, fraud, and corruption matters

Steve is a leading trial lawyer who represents clients operating in a wide range of industries, focusing on the agribusiness, life sciences, and financial services industries. He has represented clients in numerous jury trials and cases involving claims of breach of contract, fraud, false advertising, and RICO violations, as well as in national class action litigation and investigations and proceedings conducted by federal and state regulators. He also represents clients in litigation involving tax disputes, antitrust, and unfair competition law.
