

Winston's Record Year Featured in The American Lawyer

DECEMBER 1, 2017

Reprinted with permission from The American Lawyer. Any opinions in this article are not those of Winston & Strawn or its clients. The opinions in this article are the author's opinions only.

In the post-financial crisis legal market, law firms are not supposed to have years like the one Winston & Strawn is finishing up.

According to ALM Intelligence, the 900-plus lawyer firm added more lateral partners this year through September—68—than any Am Law 100 firm other than DLA Piper, which brought on the same number despite being nearly four times the size of Winston. Winston's leadership expects revenue in 2017 to approach $1 billion; which would be a nearly 20 percent jump from the year prior.

"It will be the best year the firm has ever had," says the firm's longtime chairman, Tom Fitzgerald.

One key reason for Winston & Strawn's success this year is the relentless recruiting effort Tom turned in. The Chicago-based chairman has had a whirlwind year, flying across the globe to personally recruit virtually all the large groups of partners that Winston has pulled from firms that included Chadbourne & Parke and McDermott Will & Emery, among others.

View article

1 Min Read

Related Topics

The American Lawyer

Related Professionals

---

Thomas P. Fitzgerald

Dan Webb

Michael Elkin

Jeffrey Kessler

Linda Coberly

Thomas M. Melsheimer

Bryan Goolsby

David Rogers

Dominick P. DeChiara