FT Names eDiscovery Practice Chair John Rosenthal a Top 10 Legal Innovator for North America

DECEMBER 11, 2017

eDiscovery & Information Governance Practice Chair John Rosenthal is recognized by the Financial Times as Top 10 Legal Innovator for North America. The special section features “standout legal sector trailblazers.”

The article highlights John’s commitment to new technology for the entirety of his 30-year career, noting that he was one of the first to use video to cross-examine witnesses.

John acts as national eDiscovery counsel for numerous corporations, and is a former steering committee member of Working Group 1 of the Sedona Conference on Best Practices for Electronic Discovery and Records Management, a group of lawyers, judges, and vendors focusing on the development of the law regarding electronic discovery and retention issues.
